Appomattox Native Wins Prize For Pumpkin Pie Recipe

When Grey Holland Morris won $100.00 for her pumpkin ice cream pie recipe in the DAILY PRESS (Newport News) cooking contest, she gave it to her husband to help pay for some golf clubs he wanted.

Grey, a college student, gourmet cook, mother of two young boys, still finds time to do needlework and play tennis. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ivey Holland of Appomattox.

In 1959 when Russion dictator Nikita Krushchev toured the United States, he dined at a restaurant in Niagara Falls, N. Y. The chef wanted to prepare something he considered totally American, so concocted a pumpkin ice cream pie. Later the restaurant became famous for this pie, but the chef never gave out his recipe. Mrs.Morris tried to interpret the pie, and this is what won second prize for her.

She and her husband were living in Buffalo, N. Y. at the time, while Dr. Morris finished dental school. Mrs. Morris and a friend determined to duplicate the famous pie, and had some failures and some successes. The recipe Mrs. Morris submitted is her own later refinement of the pie, which she says she "played around with till it got a real spicy taste." She uses canned pumpkin for simplicity, although she has made it from fresh pumpkin too.

Mrs. Morris was married after two years of college at Randolph-Macon. Her husband is originally of Farmville, and is now an orthodontist in Portsmouth. The Morrises are moving to Portsmouth at the end of this month to simplify his commuting, and have sold their house on Sweetbriar Drive in Newport News.

The move will mean that now Mrs. Morris has to commute, because she is a student at Christopher Newport College and working toward the degree which eluded her several years ago. She hopes to graduate in history in December, 1977.

The Morrises are parents of two sons, Brian and Benjamin, 3 and 2.

Mrs. Morris is a member of the Junior Woman's Club of Newport News, and each member was asked to submit a recipe to the DAILY PRESS contest. She sent in three. On the day the winners were announced, she was not there - she had a doctor's appointment and since she didn't think she'd win, she kept the appointment. She screamed in disbelief when informed on the telephone that she had nabbed second place.

"My mother always said I was a good cook," Grey Morris beams. "And my grandmother, Mrs. J. E. Sears, was especially proud, since she taught me to cook."

She and the children like gourmet foods, but her husband prefers plain food. To make sure the boys developed wide tastes in food, she made their baby food in the blender.

Other than cooking and studying history, she enjoys needlework and being outdoors She likes to play tennis and to fish and also "dabbles" in water color painting.

The Needs of Christmas:

God, help me to hear the important things
The soft, soft rustle of angel wings.
I get so busy, baking and buying,
I lose the sound
of the Christ Child crying!

Help me to notice that all around
There's a need in every sight and sound.
Illness and pain,
And fear in faces,
And war and famine in far off places.
I've so much comfort
Amid the dying!
I love the sound
Of the Christ-Child crying!

Help me notice that on each street
There's a person I need to run and meet!
There's a faith to bolster-
A heart to mend-
And someone who reaches out
For a friend!
I get so busy wrapping and tying,
I lose the sound,
Of the Christ-Child crying!

HOUSE REPLACEMENT QUIZ

QUESTION: How much have building costs increased?

ANSWER: on the national average, if your home was built in 1950, today's replacement cost is up 325%. If it was built in 1960, the increase in replacement construction cost is 154%.

QUESTION: Does the fire insurance on your home automatically provide increased coverage for increasing value?

ANSWER: No. Standard fire and homeowners insurance policies on homes are written for a specific maximum limit. Limits should be changed as values increase.

QUESTION: Is there an easier way - rather than changing the policy every year - in light of today's climbing costs?

ANSWER: Yes, the policy can be written with a built-in inflation-guard endorsement at a very nominal cost which increases the value of the coverage every three months to keep pace with inflation.

1977 AGRICULTURAL CONSERVATION PROGRAM (ACP)

On December 13, 1976 the Agricultural Conservation Program Development Group met in the Appomattox County ASCS Office to develop the 1977 Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP). The purpose of the meeting was for the group to identify the conservation needs in the county and to develop practices that will result in enduring conservation. The following practices were approved by the Development Group.

RE-1 Establishing Permanent Vegetative Cover
RE-2 - Improving Permanent Vegetative Cover.
RE-3 - Planting Forestry Trees or Shrubs.
RE-4 - Improving a Stand of Forest Trees.
RE-5 - Water Impoundment Reservoirs.
RE-6 - Stripcropping.
RE-7 - Terrace Systems
RE-12 - Sediment, Chemical or Water Run off Control Measures.
SA-4 - Application of Lime
SB-5 - Developing Springs, Seaps, or Pipe Lines for Livestock Water.
SC-9 - Permanent Open Drainage Systems.
SI - Animal Waste Storage and Diversion Facilities.

On these practices the Federal Government will share 50% of the cost with the farmer for performing a practice. The ASC County Committee must approve a farmer's application before any cost will be shared.

The Appomattox ASCS Office will conduct a sign-up period for the 1977 program which will begin on January 10, 1977 and run through January 31, 1977. During this same period applications for the Forestry Incentives Program will also be taken.

Between now and January 10, I will be getting more information concerning these programs out to you. This will be done by Radio (WTTX, WFLO), Newspaper (TIMES-VIRGINIAN) and Newsletters (ASCS).

If you have any questions concerning these programs please contact the Appomattox ASCS Office.

Vegetables: How To Grow Food Cheaply

By Elmore Jordan
Extension Agent

A home garden can provide a family with an abundant supply of high quality vegetables, fruits and herbs at low cost. Gardening is also an excellent form of relaxation and can give you the satisfaction of having grown your own produce.

To help ensure success and to derive maximum yields, the entire garden should be planned in detail before anything is planted. In planning, you should consider the location of the garden, the crops and varieties of each to be grown, when and where each crop will be planted, and the amount of each crop to plant.

Ideally, the garden soil sample should be deep, granular or easily pulverized, well drained, high in organic matter such as compost and humus, and slightly acid. However, it is not always possible to have such a soil and it may be beneficial to improve your soil by adding fertilizer, lime and organic matter.

The garden should receive direct sunlight all day. In addition, it should be far enough from trees so they don't compete with the crops for water. More next week.

1977 Flu-Cured Tobacco Quota Reduced 12 1/2 Percent

A 12% reduction in the flue-cured tobacco marketing quota for the 1977-78 marketing year has been announced by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The basic national marketing quota is 1,116 million pounds compared to 1,268 million pounds for the 1976 crop. The 1976 estimated production of 1,300 million pounds, coupled with a further decline in exports, resulted in an increase in the total supply of this kind of tobacco by 107 million pounds from the previous year.

The national acreage allotment is 601,942 acres, compared to the 1976 allotment of 684,034 acres. Thus, individual farm acreage allotments and poundage quotas will be 12% smaller in 1977 than in 1976, except for adjustments to reflect undermarketings or overmarketings or 1976 farm quotas. It is expected that undermarketings will exceed overmarketings by 100 million pounds, compared to excess of 140 million pounds last year.
